

THE SCOPE OF GENERAL SURGERY

Alimentary Tract, Abdomen and its Contents, Breast, Skin and Soft Tissue, Endocrine System, Surgical Critical Care, Surgical Oncology, Trauma, anatomy, physiology, epidemiology, immunology, pathology, esophagus, stomach, small bowel, colon, liver, pancreas, gallbladder, bile ducts, thyroid gland, Vascular Surgery, Pediatric Surgery, Thoracic Surgery, Burns, Endocrine system, including thyroid, parathyroid, adrenal, endocrine pancreas etc. are covered by general surgery.

The field of general surgery as a specialty comprises, but is not limited to, the performance of operations and procedures relevant to the content areas listed above. It is expected that the certified surgeon will also have additional knowledge and experience.

Iranian surgeons with the highest qualifications are uniquely distinguished throughout the world. They are trained to be outstanding and prominent clinicians who are able to provide excellent surgical care. The expansive hands on training of surgeons in Iran emphasizes on compassion, responsiveness, accountability and responsibility with respect for diversity of patients.

General Surgeons in IRAN are part of IRANIAN ASSOCIATION OF SURGONS, a professional association established with the intend to expand the knowledge and practical skills of the surgeons. The association consists of surgeons with extensive experience and expertise, who specialize in several surgical fields, publishing multiple research papers and studies each year. These surgeons are all of the highest academic excellence, expert technical skills in clinical research with up to date understanding and knowledge of contemporary practices in surgery.

hospitals also meets the highest world standards in general surgery in Iran. With high end technology, excellent medical care and top notch treatment, they provide the patient who seek high care with a relaxing environment for the rest they need with a very affordable price.